

MAKING FINAL PLANS FOR CLEAN-UP WEEK

Celan City Committee and Master Painters and Decorators Co-operating.

With one week in which to complete arrangements, the clean city committee and the executive committee of the Master Painters and Decorators' Association are engaged today in making final plans for the city-cleaning period of 1915.

Early next Monday an army of workers will begin the task of renovation. Brooms will be flying in thousands of households. Refuse, long hidden away in garrets, cellars and outhouses will be brought forth for collection by the contractors employed by the Street Cleaning Department.

Already the effects of the campaign are apparent. During the last week thousands of school children devoted a part of the Easter holidays to the work of cleaning their own premises. It is estimated by Dr. Arthur L. Murray, secretary of the clean city committee, that 20,000 homes were cleaned through the efforts of the children.

The work will begin in earnest April 13 and will continue until May 1. An official proclamation of the Commissioners every day during the week is called upon to co-operate. "Clean up week" signs are everywhere observable on public vehicles, and in the moving picture theaters. Arrangements will be made this week by W. H. Richardson, chairman of the clean city committee, for the prompt removal of refuse.

Most of the refuse from the household will be removed without cost to the occupants, provided it is placed in the proper receptacles and easily accessible to the collectors.

The regulations prescribe that "garbage must be placed in watertight, covered metal receptacles of not less than three nor more than ten gallons capacity, and must be kept dry."

"Ashes must be placed in metal receptacles having a capacity of not less than five nor more than twenty-four gallons, and must be kept dry."

"Miscellaneous refuse must be put in receptacles that can be easily handled by one man. Paper or other light refuse may be scattered or blown about, but need not be placed in receptacles if bundled, tied, sacked, or otherwise properly secured."

Miscellaneous refuse includes all rubbish due to the ordinary household life, such as, shavings, garbage, and dead animals.

A meeting of the clean city committee will be held the last of the week to discuss final plans for the campaign.

THE BLACK BOX

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM.

He darted into his room and reappeared almost immediately. The professor gave a gasp of astonishment at his altered appearance. His tweed suit seemed to have been turned inside out. There were no lapels now, and it was buttoned up to his neck. He wore a long white apron, a peaked cap and a blue necktie. "What a ghastly transformation!" he exclaimed, looking at his reflection in the mirror. "I have not been here, remember?"

He ran lightly down the steps and into the kitchen, picked up a basket, filled it with bread, butter and jam, and went to the front door, peered out for a moment, swung through it on to the step, and, turning round, commenced to labor it with his flat. Two plainclothes men stood at the end of the street. A police automobile drew up outside the gate. Inspector French, attended by a policeman, stepped out. The former looked searchingly at Quest.

"Well, my boy, what are you doing here?" he asked.

"I cannot answer yet," Quest replied, in broken English. "Ten minutes ago I already have I wasted. I have knocked at all the doors."

French smiled.

"You can hop it, Dutchie," he advised. "By the bye, when that order for vegetables came," he added, frowning for a moment.

"It is three times a week the same," Quest explained, whipping the cloth from the basket. "No word has been sent to alter anything."

"The inspector pushed him hurriedly in the direction of the street."

"You run along home," he said, "and tell your master that he had better leave off delivering goods here for the present."

Quest went off, grumbling. He walked with the peculiar waddle affected by young Dutchies, of a certain class, and was soon out of sight around the corner of the street. French opened the door with a master key and secured it carefully, leaving one of his men to guard it. He searched the rooms on the ground floor and finally ascended to Quest's study. The professor was still enjoying his cigar.

"Say, where's Quest?" the inspector asked promptly.

"Have you let him out already?" the professor replied, in a tone of mild surprise. "I thought he was in the Tomba prison."

"The inspector pressed on without answering. Every room in the house was searched. Presently he came back to the room where the professor was still sitting. He usually good-humored face was a little clouded.

"Professor," he began, "What's the matter, Miller?"

A plain-clothes man from the street had come hurrying into the room.

"Say, Mr. French," he reported, "our fellows have got hold of a new deal down in the street, who was coming along way round the back and had just entered this house by the side entrance, half an hour ago. One he described exactly as the man who had been in the other, without a doubt, was Quest."

French turned swiftly toward the professor.

"You hear what this man says?" he exclaimed. "Mr. Ashleigh, you're fooling me. You entered this house with Quest last night. You will have to tell us where he is hiding."

The professor knocked the ash from his cigar and replaced it in his mouth. His clasped hands rested in front of him. There was a twinkle of something like mirth in his eyes as he glanced up at the inspector.

"Mr. French," he said, "Mr. Sanford Quest is my friend. I am here in charge of his house. Believing as I do that his arrest was an egregious blunder, I shall say or do nothing likely to afford you any information."

French turned impatiently away. Suddenly a light broke in upon him. He rushed toward the door.

"What if it Dutchie," he exclaimed, "the professor smiled benignly."

COUNCIL TO FIX RATE OF ALEXANDRIA TAXES

Meeting Tomorrow Night Will Be One of the Most Important of the Present Year.

ALEXANDRIA, April 12.—The fixing of the tax rate on real estate and personal property for the next fiscal year, one of the most important duties of the city council of Alexandria, will be the principal business at its meeting tomorrow night. This year the subject is more important than usual on account of the recent changes in the method of assessing the State taxes. The general assembly at a special session held in February amended the law so as to provide for segregation of various items of revenue. Hereafter both the State and city have collected taxes on real estate, the levy of the City of Alexandria being 15c, less 5 per cent, on each $100, while that of the State was 25 cents on each $100. After this year the city will receive all the taxes from real estate with the exception of 10 cents on each $100, which goes to the public school fund.

Alexandria will lose the amount collected from insurance companies, railroad taxes, tax on rolling stock, of railway lines, and other taxes which have been segregated to the State. While the city has not yet received $1,800,000, it is estimated that this will amount to approximately $8,000,000. Should the city retain the present rate of $1.80 per $100, it will receive $1,800,000. The finance committee of council has had the subject under consideration for several weeks, and will make their report to council tomorrow night.

President James M. Duncan, of the Chamber of Commerce, has announced his committees for the present year, the chairman being as follows: Executive, Robert S. Jones; business enterprise, Robert E. Foy; insurance and real estate, John W. May; transportation and express, W. A. Smoot, Jr.; conventions and celebrations, Henry H. Field; arbitration, advertising, and trade, George D. Hopkins; river and navigation, Harry Hammond; municipal, W. J. Ballenger; membership, W. A. D. Brockett; postal, telephone, and telegraph, C. S. T. Burke; agriculture and immigration, A. D. Brockett.

The corporation opened its April term this morning. The docket was read and several unimportant cases set for trial later in the term.

In police court James Coporetti was fined for exceeding the speed limit on a motorcycle.

Mrs. Sarah M. Baggett has sold to C. W. Hall lots 2 and 4, in block 2, of the Baggett subdivision.

The State examination for school teachers will be held at the Lee School building, April 15, 16, and 17.

HYATTSVILLE.

The criminal docket was taken up today by the circuit court for this county, and it is expected that the court will finish this term by Friday night. The docket is considered one of the smallest that has occurred for many years. The petit jury is comprised of Elwood N. Fischer, W. Herbert Lushy, Robert A. Padgett, Arthur C. Wasche, James R. Hardie, H. Bernard Berry, John A. Dorr, Thomas M. Miller, Lyman L. Laughlin, William C. Massey, Frank P. Torbert, Charles Sauterlich, Jeremiah Sweeney, Henry P. Hardy, Guy H. Freeman, Robert E. Nelson, James W. Hawkins, James R. Clements, William A. Fairall, Charles S. Early, William H. Yoe, R. L. Smallwood, Bernard Maenner, and William T. Beall, of Rufus.

"Clean Up" week started in Hyattsville this morning, as the municipal committee gathered up rubbish from the households in the First ward. Edward Devlin, chairman of the road committee of the council, is in charge of the undertaking. The wagons will devote two days to each of the three wards of the town.

The monthly business meeting of the Baraca Sunday school class of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will be held at the home of M. H. B. Hoffman, tonight, at 8 o'clock.

The following executive committee has been named by the Tobacco Growers' Association of Southern Maryland to organize district associations: Mr. W. H. Hill, Marlboro district; Mr. R. Early, Baden, Nottingham district; W. Alton Gallahan, Piscataway district; W. Seton Belt, Queen Anne district; Dr. H. M. Bowser, Accotink district; E. S. Burroughs, Surritt's district.

Miss Mildred Iglehart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Iglehart, of Germantown, died Saturday in a Washington hospital, where she had been treated for several days from pneumonia. She was nineteen years old.

Following a long illness, George Washington Murphy, eighty years old, died yesterday at his home in Hyattsville, this county. He is survived by five sons and two daughters. He was one of the largest citizens of the upper section of the county.

A license to marry has been issued here to Miss Viola Olive Burdette and John Howard Faust, both of Takoma Park, this county.

Jacob Hager, aged seventy-seven years, died yesterday at his home near Damascus. He leaves his wife and five children.

The April meeting of the Maryland Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was held here, a large number of members attending. Mrs. Frank G. Odenheimer, of Baltimore, State president, presided. Resolutions of sympathy and regret were passed upon the deaths of Col. Spencer C. Jones, commander of the 10th Maryland Cavalry, and of the late General Brown Camp of Confederate Cavalry, both of whom were members of the division.

Representatives of every Pacific coast city and of practically every intermediate section from Montana to Mexico were before the commission today. The question up was that of the proposed rates to be levied on the coast and the coast, under the fourth section of the interstate commerce law, the long-and-short-haul clause. Present appearances are that Spokane alone is satisfied with the schedules fixed, and Spokane is asking for further concessions. Shipper representatives allege that the Northern railroads have prepared a tariff which on its face shows it was intended solely to favor Spokane.

The scheme proposed by the railroads and applicable only to that part of Washington in which Spokane has grants on a number of important commodities lower rates even than given Missoula, Mont., 250 miles east. Rates, it is declared by the protestants, are far below any that could be suggested as compelled by water competition. In the application that resulted in the drafting of this tariff, it was openly stated that the rates were required to enable interior cities to distribute in competition with coast cities.

Allege Discrimination.

This, say the coast representatives, calls for discrimination against the coast cities and deprives them of their natural advantage through water competition. If the commission accepts the plan and adopts the theory, it is declared, it will have begun to do the thing that resulted in the nation-wide protest which ended in taking the rate-making power away from the railroads. It is asserted the commission would be using congressional power to discriminate against one place in favor of another.

The inevitable result, many shippers' representatives say, will be legislation putting a mandatory long and short haul clause in the interstate commerce act, as well as the enforcement of strict mileage rates.

It is thought the session will be short, since the evidence is all in and only argument remains.

ANACOSTIA.

Funeral services for Joseph Wahler, seventy-seven years of age, who died at his home in Congress Heights on Friday last, were held this morning from St. Teresa's Church, followed by interment in St. Mary's Cemetery. His wife, Anna Wahler, and several children survive him.

The Missionary Society of Emmanuel Episcopal Church will meet tonight at the home of its president, J. C. Winter, in W street, for the purpose of hearing reports of the work.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Hattie Joachim, formerly of Shannon place, this suburb, to Daniel J. Harrington, of Washington. They will make their home in Washington.

Ralph Williamson, chairman of the committee in charge of the tenancy courts of the Anacostia M. E. Church, located in U street near Fourteenth, is planning to have them placed in fine condition this week. There are three courts, and all of them will be leveled. The courts are open to the general public use.

U. S. SYSTEM OF RATE MAKING IS ON TRIAL

Hearing Before Interstate Commerce Commission May End in Congressional Action.

The whole scheme of railroad rate making now in use in America is on trial before the Interstate Commerce Commission today, in what may prove to be the most important hearing ever held by that organization.

Its net result may be a declaration by Congress for a straight mileage basis of freight charges throughout the whole country; a complete abandonment of the theory of water competition, and a substitution of the fact of such competition wherever it exists.

Spokane, Wash., made famous in the original long-and-short-haul clause fight, is again the focal point of trouble, but the difficulty is greater than the affairs of any one city of the country. It resolves itself into the question of whether the Interstate Commerce Commission is able to satisfy the country with its efforts at rate adjustment on the present basis any more than the railroads were able before the job was taken off their hands.

Claim Tariff Favors Spokane.

CAPITAL R. R. RATE HEARING ON MAY 13

I. C. C. to Hear Protests Against Railways and Express Companies Here.

The Interstate Commerce Commission today set May 13 as the date for formal hearing of the complaint of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, the Retail Merchants' Association, and 140 corporations, firms, partnerships, and individuals in business in Washington against the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and all other railroads entering Washington, and their connections.

The same date has been set for hearing of the complaint of Golden & Co. against the Adams Express Company, Wells-Fargo Express Company, Southern Express Company, American Express Company, and all other express companies serving Washington.

Both hearings will be held before Examiner Pugh, Washington merchants and manufacturers, in their complaint, allege that the failure of these roads to establish competitive rates is a subject matter to Washington, has subjected them to unjust and unreasonable rates and to financial damage and injury.

The merchants ask the commission to establish and put into effect reasonable commodity rates and to allow reason for losses sustained. This is alleged, because of the absence of such rates for the last two years.

Golden & Co. in its complaint alleges that the rates on cream from all points in nearby States within a 500-mile radius of Washington, over all express lines, are unreasonable.

It was suggested by the commission that it could not go behind the uniform rates recently prescribed for express companies serving the entire United States without specific inquiry and a finding of fact with respect to conditions of these particular shipments.

Ralph Williamson, chairman of the committee in charge of the tenancy courts of the Anacostia M. E. Church, located in U street near Fourteenth, is planning to have them placed in fine condition this week. There are three courts, and all of them will be leveled.
